Welcome to the 2010 Women's Summit

New DECADE. New DIRECTIONS.

It is hard to believe how quickly the past 10 years have flown by and all the changes that have taken place. Communication is easier and faster than ever – we now e-mail, text, tweet, and IM from our wireless laptops and smart phones. Our children have always Googled information, and mobile applications give us instant access to the weather, directions, and the news.

All of these changes allow us to be more connected and better informed than ever before, which has been especially important with the state of the global economy. We have all had to adjust our course over the past year, but we must always look to the future. The 2010 Women's Summit®, "New Decade. New Directions.," will provide you with a day of professional and personal development that can help you navigate life's challenges with knowledge and confidence.

Our three keynote speakers have taken their companies and their lives in new directions over the years, and it will be exciting to learn where they came from and where they are headed. There will also be 20 diverse workshop sessions presented by prominent women in their fields. Throughout the day you will acquire knowledge about leadership, entrepreneurship, finance, negotiation, creativity, communication, life balance, branding, and transitioning into the next decade.

The Women's Summit would not be possible without the generosity of our sponsors, whose financial support makes this conference such a great value. Their commitment, along with the efforts of the Women's Summit co-chairs, committee, Bryant University faculty, and volunteers, makes this a memorable and worthwhile conference each year.

Please join us at the 13th annual Women's Summit® on Thursday, March 11, 2010. Together we can experience the promise of a new decade and new directions.

Sincerely,

ELLEN ALEMANY

Bobbi Brown, CEO and Founder of Bobbi Brown Cosmetics, started a makeup revolution in 1991 with a handful of lipsticks and a simple philosophy: "Women want to look and feel like themselves, only prettier and more confident" Today, Bobbi Brown Cosmetics can be found throughout North America, Europe, Asia, and Africa. In addition to running her company, Ms. Brown is the author of five books, including two New York Times best-sellers, and regularly shares her expertise on television, in syndicated columns, backstage at runway shows, and on editorial shoots for the world's top magazines. As a wife and mother of three, she finds balance by trying to keep everything in life as simple as possible. She dedicates time to empowering women of all ages including Dress for Success Worldwide, which provides underprivileged women with interview suits and career development advice, and the Jane Addams High School for Academic Careers in the Bronx. Glenda Hatchett went on to become the highest-ranking African-American woman at Delta Air Lines after graduating from Emory University School of Law, and was named one of the "100 Best and Brightest Women in Corporate America" by Ebony Magazine. She then earned the distinction of becoming Georgia's first African-America chief presiding judge of a state court and received a 1995 NAACP Thurgood Marshall Award. The mother of two boys, Judge Hatchett is the author of the best-seller, Say What You Mean and Mean What you Say, and is known for her creative sentencing and revolutionary interventions on the award-winning, syndicated television series Judge Hatchett. She serves on the National Board of Governors of the Boys and Girls Clubs of America. When asked about her numerous accolades and awards, she will always point out that her most important accomplishment has been her ability to have a positive impact on the lives of troubled youth and their families.
